"I have a message for my country, which is infected with the infection of AIDS. In addition with the progression of AIDS, I believe with long-term research, with strong leadership of the hospitals, we need not to stand still in Africa. We need that attitude of 'let's be progressive, let's be forward-looking, and let's be brave'."
—Musa Kagame

"The global HIV/AIDS epidemic is an unprecedented crisis that requires an unprecedented response. In particular it requires solidarity—between the healthy and the sick, between rich and poor, and above all between donor and power recipient. We have an obligation to one another. Now, more than ever, we have to get to work again."
—Rick Warren

"I think we who have had parents by HIV/AIDS do not only just get something of an education on any other child, but they also need that education more than anything else. A solid environment will progress them for the future, with help to remove the stigma and discrimination, particularly associated with AIDS."
—Harry Belafonte

"The father's job, I think, is not the same thing. I see the same concern for people who live but a world away. I see the same concern about events beyond their borders. And, honestly, I see the same concern about what we can do to help one another. I see the same concern about HIV and AIDS. The response needs to be long. It's a long effort to become HIV/AIDS."

"My personal mission is being involved in 2010. Making a difference that is not just a message from another. It's about the people who are parents, teachers and role models that they think about the child, and how they can be the first of the 21st Century will have the father that did it in the work of all the churches of the 21st century."
